Dear Sirs and Madam:

Enclosed is the 2016 Wild Card report required by Section 12-a of the New York Banking Law.

Section 12-a of the Banking Law, commonly referred to as the "Wild Card" section, authorizes the Superintendent of Financial Services to permit state-chartered banking organizations to exercise powers that are available to corresponding federally-chartered institutions, but not authorized by the Banking Law.

The Superintendent's ability to extend federal institution powers to state-chartered or licensed banking organizations through regulatory action facilitates New York's ability to promote our state banking system and, when necessary, respond to the expansion of the privileges of federally-chartered banks and thrifts. I believe the Wild Card powers authorized under the Banking Law are of great value to New York-chartered institutions and help maintain the attractiveness of the state charter compared to a federal charter.

I am pleased with the progress we made in 2016 to promote our state banking system. State-chartered banking institutions are an important part of the New York State economy. At the end of 2016, state-chartered banks, credit unions and licensed foreign branches and agencies had a total of 91,402 full-time employees, compared to 86,472 full-time employees at the end of 2015. Deposits grew to $459.3 billion in 2016 from $431.1 billion in 2015.

I hope you find the report informative and useful.

Sincerely,

INTRODUCTION

The Department of Financial Services (DFS) supervises and regulates approximately 1,500 banking institutions with assets totaling more than $2.6 trillion. These include 90 state-chartered banks, 83 foreign branches, 10 foreign agencies, 16 credit unions, 380 licensed financial services companies, as well as 7,600 mortgage loan originators and servicers, along with other banking entities.

In 2016, DFS engaged in a disciplined effort to promote our state banking charter, and the results show that our state banking system is strong and growing. The banking system in the United States permits all banking institutions, including banks, trust companies, thrift institutions, credit unions and branches of non-U.S. banks, to choose to operate under either a federal or state charter or license<sup>1</sup>. The purpose of the Wild Card authority is to allow the Superintendent of Financial Services to react quickly when changes in federal statutes, regulations or interpretations grant powers to federally-chartered institutions that state-chartered institutions do not enjoy. In such event, the Superintendent may authorize one or more state-chartered banking organizations of the same type to exercise the same powers.

ASSESSING CHARTER ACTIONS

Commercial Banks and Trust Companies

Existing federal laws have made state charters more favorable. For example, the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (i) is intended to limit the ability of the Comptroller of the Currency to preempt state law, (ii) specifically precludes preemption for subsidiaries and affiliates of banks, and (iii) makes clear that State consumer protection laws may go beyond the rules established by the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. The Dodd-Frank Act has lessened the attractiveness of federal banking charters as a lever to preempt state laws, and increased the importance of factors other than preemption. As a result, the Superintendent's ability to grant Wild Card authorizations remains important because the Wild Card powers enable the state charter to provide the same banking powers as the federal charter.

From January 1, 2011 to December 31, 2016, five commercial banks converted from a federal charter to a state charter. In the same period, five state-chartered banks merged into federally-chartered banks, three state-chartered banks merged into non-New York state-chartered banks, two state-chartered banks merged into non-bank institutions, one state-chartered bank merged into another state-chartered bank, two state-chartered banks surrendered their deposit insurance with one voluntarily liquidating its assets and the other becoming a state-chartered non-deposit trust company.

At December 31, 2016, there were 66 commercial banks and trust companies with total assets of $713,777,512,000.

Thrift Institutions

The Home Owners Loan Act, which governs federal thrift banking activities, provided for broad preemption of state laws affecting banking activities. Thus, persons interested in forming a thrift institution, even if they had no intention ever to engage in interstate banking activities, may have had the view that the federal thrift charter provided greater flexibility in the conduct of banking activities even with the existence of a Wild Card law applicable to state thrift institutions. On the other hand, the provisions of the Dodd-Frank Act abolishing the Office of Thrift Supervision and transferring its functions relating to federal savings associations to the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency may have reduced the relative attractiveness of a federal thrift charter.

<sup>1</sup> DFS also supervises non-depository institutions, which are not banks and therefore are not subject to the dual banking system.

From January 1, 2011 to December 31, 2016, seven thrift institutions converted from a federal charter to a state charter. Two state-chartered thrift institutions have since merged with and into two other state-chartered institutions; one into a thrift institution and the other into a commercial bank. In the same time period, one state-chartered thrift institution merged into a federally-chartered commercial bank.

There were 21 state-chartered thrifts at the end of 2016 with total assets of $84,610,196,000.

Credit Unions

In New York, at year-end 2016, there were 16 state-chartered credit unions with assets of $7,669,045,661 and 346 federally-chartered credit unions with $69,188,897,000 in assets.

New York has taken steps to address the growth in federally-chartered credit unions, and, as a result, the Department has advocated that federally-chartered credit unions consider converting to a state charter. One federally-chartered credit union converted to state charter in 2014 and later merged with and into another state-chartered credit union.

In appreciation of the significant role that New York State-chartered credit unions play in providing financial services to their members and communities, Governor Cuomo signed legislation in 2015 that allows credit unions to expand their field of membership by combining employer, trade association, and community groups into a single field of membership. The law, which amended Section 451-a of the New York Banking law, provides New York credit unions with the opportunity to significantly expand their membership and serve the broader public.

New York law also provides that, in considering applications, the Superintendent of DFS shall consider a credit union's record and history of serving underserved areas, as well as low and moderate-income individuals within the communities it currently serves, and its commitment to serving those communities in the future.

DFS fully supports consumer access to financial services and urges credit unions to provide valuable services to communities across New York. DFS encourages all credit unions to take advantage of New York law to provide financial services to all New Yorkers and will conduct timely reviews of all applications by new or existing credit unions seeking to be chartered by New York State.

During 2016, one state-chartered credit union merged into a federally-chartered credit union and another surrendered its license.

Foreign Branches and Agencies

Branches and agencies of foreign banks have found New York an attractive place to be licensed, despite the existence of a federal licensing option. At year-end 1996, there were 49 such State-licensed branches and agencies in New York with total assets of $43.0 billion. As of year-end 2016, there were 97 such State-licensed bank branches and agencies in New York with total assets of $1,696,746,426,000 and 28 federally-licensed bank branches and agencies with $290,258,413,000 in total assets.

Branch Openings

There were 43 branch openings of New York State-chartered banking institutions in 2016. Through June 2016, the total number of branches was 1,198, up from 1,196 in 2015.

SECTION IV: IMPACT ON INSURANCE ACTIVITIES

Section 12-a(7)(a) of the Banking Law promotes the important policy of functional regulation of bank insurance sales activities. Banks, trust companies, savings banks, and savings and loan associations exercise such powers subject to regulation by the Department and pursuant to all insurance laws, rules and regulations.

For the calendar year 2016, a total of 25 New York State-chartered banking institutions reported income from insurance activities. As indicated in previous Wild Card Reports, the dollar level of income realized from these activities tends to be modest for both large and small institutions, but for certain institutions, it represented a large portion of total non-interest income. The table below provides a summary of insurance income for New York state-chartered banking institutions.
