Letter from the Superintendent...

To the Honorable George E. Pataki and Members of the Legislature:

I hereby transmit the annual report of the New York State Banking Department for the year 2004 pursuant to Section 43 of the Banking Law.

I am pleased to report that the financial services industry in New York State is thriving. New York is the financial capital of the world and its institutions play a critical role in providing essential services to people not only in this state but around the globe.

The New York State Banking Department is the regulator for more than 3,400 financial entities, including all state-chartered domestic banking institutions, virtually all of the United States offices of international banking institutions, and all of the mortgage brokers, mortgage bankers, check cashers and budget planners operating in New York State. The total assets of the depository companies and institutions supervised by the Banking Department exceed $1.3 trillion. Please refer Schedule B, Part I for a complete list of supervised entities, by sector.

At year-end 2004 there were 133 state chartered domestic banks and thrifts with total assets of $394 billion and 32 state chartered credit unions with assets of $3.6 billion

The foreign banking community in New York includes the world's largest global banking enterprises. The Banking Department is the primary regulator of U.S. branches and agencies of foreign banking organizations, supervising more than 80 percent of the nationwide assets held by such entities. At year-end, the Banking Department supervised a total of 111 branches, agencies and representative offices of foreign banks with assets of $925 billion from more than 40 countries. The Banking Department also has oversight of a number of banks owned by foreign banking organizations. The Department is the only state regulator with a representative office overseas, including an office in Tokyo and an office in London. In 2004, we closed the Tokyo office, and our overseas operations are now run out of London and New York City.

In addition to our responsibilities for depository institutions, the Department is responsible for licensing and supervising several other growing areas of financial services. These include 54 budget planners; 211 check cashers; 14 licensed lenders; 73 money transmitters; 273 mortgage bankers; 2,162 mortgage brokers; 60 Premium Finance Companies and 110 Sales Finance Companies.

I am pleased to report that at year end, the state's banking sector reported higher capital and a return on assets roughly in line with returns over the prior four years, despite rising costs and tightening net interest margins. Past due loans were modestly down and charge-offs remained in a range similar to the prior four years. However, although overall employment levels statewide improved in 2004 for the first time since 2000, the financial sector did not experience the same gains. Industry consolidation, combined with industry cost cutting resulted in a relatively flat year in terms of employment.

The major risk to the financial sector in the coming year is the potential for an increase in interest rates. Were this to occur, the risk could be manifested in the following ways: (1) interest margins could be compressed particularly for residential lenders. These lenders tend to be subject to a greater degree of net interest margin compression in a rising rate environment; (2) debt service safety margins could erode as payments increase on new and adjustable borrowings, and (3) the resulting increase in mortgage rates could reduce the affordability of housing and thus the demand. Reduced demand could in turn slow or potentially reverse housing price gains and collateral values for mortgage lenders.

Financial performance aside, this was a year of fundamental and tumultuous change in the regulation of the financial industry. The year began with the OCC making permanent its preemption of lending and deposit laws for national banks; exempting them from the enforcement of any consumer protection laws by any entity other than itself; and granting operating subsidiaries the same preemption rights and visitorial immunity as the parent banks.

For the Department this was troubling: for consumers, the news could not have been worse. The effect of this ruling is that national banks and their operating subsidiaries no longer have to obey state consumer protection laws and no entity other than the OCC has the right to go into a nationally chartered bank or its operating subsidiaries to enforce any of those laws. The result is that a consumer is protected to a different standard depending on which institution they go to for a financial product, such as a mortgage loan. In New York, that standard is significantly lower for nationally chartered banks than for those chartered by the state.

The nationwide reaction was swift and intense. Both the Senate and House Banking Committees held hearings at which the New York State Banking Department played a lead role, providing testimony and arguing the case against the preemption on behalf of the Conference of State Bank Supervisors, the regulators' industry group that represents all fifty states and the District of Columbia.

The OCC preemption has highlighted the fact that we state regulators operate in a competitive environment, and we need to add value in our examinations. Additionally, the preemption has spurred several fundamental changes in the financial regulatory environment, and has required that we sharpen our focus on our organizational and operational structure, and philosophical outlook.

The first and most critical upshot was to accelerate change in the Department's revenue structure. The entire operating budget for the Department has historically been collected through assessments levied solely on chartered depository entities, which represent approximately 10 percent of the total number of institutions we regulate.

While plans to address this inequity were taking shape, the Department's two largest banks — HSBC and JPMorgan Chase — switched to federal charters; decisions, that while not solely inspired by the preemption, certainly were made easier as a result. Because those two banks provided a full 30 percent of the Department's operating budget, the planned restructuring of our revenue stream was necessarily speeded up. This required legislation to grant the Superintendent the ability to assess all the entities the Department regulates while Department staff simultaneously developed the rationale for the billing structure.

With the invaluable assistance of the Assembly and Senate Banking Committee Chairs Cathy Nolan and Hugh Farley; the legislation passed and the revenue restructuring, including outreach to the affected industries, was complete in time for the beginning of 2005 and the new billing cycle.

Over the last two years, in light of the growing numbers of institutions in non-depository sectors which are now being assessed for our work, and the fact that we need to ensure that we are examining all our entities efficiently and effectively, it became increasingly clear that the Department needed to take steps to improve and make more relevant the examination procedures for licensed entities. While ensuring the safety and soundness of our depository institutions and foreign banking organization licensees remains a core mission, the Department has taken affirmative steps to tighten and improve examination protocol in the licensed financial sectors. To that end, we have adopted a similar safety and soundness model that will go farther in protecting consumers from predatory practices and unscrupulous behavior.

Unfortunately, our concern about the safety and soundness of at least one entity was justified: in the spring of 2004, irregularities at a large money transmitter, CashPoint Network Services, Inc., caused the Department to suspend its license. The repercussions of the CashPoint failure were felt nationwide. As a result, the Licensed Financial Services Division was reorganized, and with fresh leadership in place, a new examination protocol, known as FILMS was implemented for all check cashers and money transmitters.

F is for Financial Condition. Our examiners look at balance sheets, levels of permissible investment, level and quality of capital, the quality and quantity of earnings, trends and stability and they analyze liquidity, profitability and leverage.

I stands for Internal Controls and Auditing. How effective are the MSB's controls and overall internal control environment?

L is for Legal and Regulatory Compliance. This is critical — how good is the business at adhering to applicable state and federal laws and regulations? How effective is compliance and can management spot and correct any compliance issues or gaps? Is the BSA/AML program effective or deficient?

M is for Management. Examiners look at the overall performance and the licensee's ability to identify, measure and monitor risks. Succession plans are also important as is responsiveness to recommendations by auditors and supervisors.

S stands for Systems and Technology. An important part of the exam, particularly for money transmitters, is the IT audit, testing the management, development and support of information systems.

Over this last year, we also have begun a similar transformation of the Mortgage Banking Division (MBD) to address backlogs in processing applications. We are working with a national task force to create a universal licensing application to allow mortgage companies operating across state lines a simplified and cost-efficient way to expand their businesses. At the same time, the MBD's operating model shifted to one more attuned to the risks faced by consumers in a volatile mortgage market. Often working with the Department's Criminal Investigations Bureau (CIB), the MBD initiated a number of enforcement actions on behalf of consumers that resulted in penalties and restitution of excess payments. Some of these are listed in the pages that follow under Enforcement Actions.

In addition to their efforts to combat mortgage fraud, the CIB participated in a wide range of activities related to anti-money laundering efforts and issues related to identifying and freezing funds linked to terrorist organizations. Forging close ties with federal, state and local law enforcement agencies, CIB personnel were active in various anti-terrorist initiatives involving the Bank Secrecy Act and the USA Patriot Act.

Just as the CIB is unique in the state banking regulatory world, so is the Holocaust Claims Processing Office (HCPO), which was created in June of 1997 by Governor Pataki. The mission of the Office includes accepting Holocaust-era claims against European banks, claims against insurance companies on unpaid policies and claims seeking the recovery of lost or looted art. Since the Office's inception, it has responded to more than ten thousand inquiries resulting in claims from 44 states and 34 countries. As of 2004, HCPO staff have handled more than 2300 bank claims, 2,300 insurance claims and 120 art claims. In 2004 alone, they secured the return of $16.5 million and two paintings. Through the first quarter of 2005 they have secured a lifetime total of $41 million for claimants, of which $28.5 million for bank claims and $12.5 million for insurance claims.

The depository divisions at the Department have not been exempt from change and streamlining. These divisions have now been reorganized in a way that is defined by service area, type and size of institution. The US Financial Services Division became the Large Complex Banks (LCB) Division. Large domestic and foreign banks are part of this division, as is the Capital Markets team. The rationale for assigning institutions to this division is based on their size and complexity and integral role in world markets.

The Foreign Financial Services Division is now renamed the Foreign and Wholesale Banks (FWB) Division. This division oversees all of the smaller foreign branches and agencies, as well as the limited purpose trust companies. The Trust team is part of this group.

On the domestic scene, the Community Financial Services Division, was renamed the Community and Regional Banks (CRB) Division, and retained most of its former responsibilities.

Education and outreach efforts are increasingly relevant to consumers across the state. As safety and soundness of all our supervised entities is our core mission, the Department has taken affirmative steps to strengthen its efforts to inform the public at large about the workings of licensed entities, from mortgage brokers and bankers to check cashers, money transmitters and budget planners.

In keeping with our mission “to educate and protect consumers” we have increased our outreach efforts Statewide and have made it easier for consumers to reach us with their concerns and problems. In 2004, we consolidated our consumer, mortgage and ATM phone lines into a single number — 877-BANK-NYS and are handling calls in four languages — English, Spanish, Russian and Cantonese. To announce the change, the Department sent 4,000 letters to elected officials, the regulated entities, consumer groups and others, letting them know about this new service.

In other organizational shifts, the Communications & Media Relations Division (CMR) took charge of all consumer outreach efforts, including those that had been handled by the Consumer Division. CMR now runs the Speakers Bureau, consumer and community group outreach and education, and has expanded the Department's efforts to create new materials and outreach programs that extend and focus financial education efforts on regional issues and special needs. CMR is reaching out more intensively to advocates and consumer groups to support their specific needs for educational and promotional materials.

One of the reasons that the provision of basic financial education is so important is there are an estimated 800,000 New Yorkers who are unbanked. There are myriad reasons for this being the case and they range from lack of knowledge to fear of deportation. The Banking Department is taking affirmative steps to bring banking services to communities where they are inadequate or altogether lacking. One way to alleviate this problem is through the promotion of the Banking Development District (BDD) program signed into law by the Governor in 1997. This is a powerful economic development tool that promises great results. In November 2004, I convened a Working Group of state and city agencies with the goal of strengthening and enriching the program for the benefit of both the banks and the communities. Working together, we are convinced that we can make this program better and easier to access and we look forward to a number of new branch openings in New York City in 2005. Next year, the Department will make a concerted effort to expand the enriched BDD program upstate, bringing needed banking services to unbanked New Yorkers statewide.

If anything, the past year was one of fundamental change for the banking industry and for the Department. I believe that the changes that we have made internally and the initiatives that we have taken will go a long way to making the Banking Department a more effective regulator and supervisor and more relevant to the every day lives of all New Yorkers.

THE BANKING BOARD

AS OF DECEMBER 31, 2004

The Banking Board was established by and derives its authority from Sections 13 and 14 of the New York State Banking Law. It is a quasi-legislative body, whose members serve without pay, which promulgates regulations of both a general and specific nature for the conduct of the banking business in the State of New York. The Banking Board possesses broad powers that affect all areas of banking supervision.

The Banking Board is composed of 17 members, a number established by statute. The Superintendent of Banks serves as Chairman of the Board and Executive Head. The other 16 members of the Board are appointed to a three-year term by the Governor, subject to approval by the Senate. Of these 16 members, eight are so-called public members, while the other eight must have banking experience obtained from employment in the various segments of the banking industry.

Total STMIF assets for the year ending December 31, 2004 amounted to $4,621,398.32. Monies received in the 2004 calendar year from the 2004 STMIF assessment are included in the total STMIF asset balance. Specifically, in December 2004 the STMIF levied assessments on entities licensed to conduct the business of money transmission in New York State in accordance with the provisions of Article 13-C of New York's Banking Law. The assessments were levied to increase the fund balance in the STMIF in order to protect purchasers and holders of New York instruments which were not transmitted by Cash Point Network Services, Inc. ("Cash Point"). Cash Point's New York money transmission license is temporarily suspended. As of December 31, 2004, $252,452.00 was collected as a result of assessments leaving an outstanding balance to be collected of $1,195,152.00. In connection with Cash Point's failure to effectuate money transmission transactions conducted through its agents in New York State, the State of New York Banking Department will conduct a claims process authorized under Article 13-C of New York's Banking Law for the benefit of purchasers and holders of New York instruments resulting from the failed money transmission transactions. Future assessments may be necessary.

SCHEDULE F - SUMMARY OF BANKING LAW AND REGULATIONS ADOPTED

PART I: BANKING LAW AND RELATED CHAPTERS

Chapter 59 (S.6059-B—Parts EE and FF), Application of General Assessment; approved 8/20/04. Amends sections 17, 20, 21 and 39 of the Banking Law. Effective immediately.

Updates and expands authority of the Superintendent to apply the annual general assessment to all persons and entities regulated by the Department. The Chapter permits the Superintendent to incorporate into and collect examination expenses as part of the general assessment, rather than billing such expenses separately. In addition, the Superintendent is given additional flexibility in determining the amounts and periodic occurrence of the general assessment billing. Finally, the Superintendent is authorized to suspend upon notice any regulated person or entity that fails to timely pay their general assessment billing. Part EE also makes conforming amendments to sections 20 and 21.

Part FF makes certain technical corrections relating to section 39 due to the enactment of Chapter 356 (below). Of note is the revision of the definition of “bank holding company” to be inclusive of one-bank holding companies.

Chapter 300 (A.9445), Banking Development District Program Extension; approved 8/3/04. Amends section 4 of Chapter 526 of the laws of 1998. Effective immediately.

Extends the expiration and repeal date of Chapter 526, which authorized the banking development district program, from January 1, 2005 until January 1, 2012.

Chapter 356 (A.10875), Supervisory Powers of the Superintendent; approved 8/10/04. Amends sections 39 and 44 of the Banking Law, and section 2403 of the Public Authorities Law. Effective immediately.

Clarifies, updates and expands the Superintendent’s authority to order regulated persons and entities to take certain actions with respect to appearing before the Superintendent and explaining an apparent violation of any law or regulation; discontinuing any unauthorized or unsafe practice; making good any impairment of capital or ensuring compliance with financial requirements; making good on any encroachments on reserves; and keeping books and accounts as prescribed. The Chapter also makes consistent the application of any penalties upon any regulated person or entity, which the Superintendent may charge for violations of the Banking Law or regulations thereunder, any final or temporary order of the Superintendent, any condition imposed in writing by the Superintendent or the Banking Board regarding an application or grant, or any written agreement entered into with the Superintendent.

The chapter also removes the Superintendent as a named member from the board of the State of New York Mortgage Agency, which the Department supervises, and authorizes the Governor to make four, rather than three, appointments to the board.

Chapter 432 (S.7710-A), Regulation of Commercial Check Cashers; approved 9/14/04. Amends sections 369, 372, and 373 of the Banking Law and adds a new section 372-a. Effective immediately.

Clarifies and states expressly that the legislative intent of Article 9-A of the Banking Law is to provide for the regulation of the business of cashing checks, drafts, or money orders, whether such business is provided to payees that are natural persons or to any business person or entity (commercial entities). The Chapter amends the Banking Law to save harmless commercial check cashers, which become licensed, that were (on or before July 14, 2004) and continue to be located within 3/10 of a mile from an existing licensed check casher, provided that such commercial check casher (or any subsequent person or entity that obtains such licensed location through a change of control) continues to cash checks only for commercial entities at that location. The Chapter further provides that no maximum fee shall apply to the cashing of commercial checks, whether such checks are cashed by a commercial check casher or any other licensed check casher. For non-commercial checks, the Chapter increases the maximum face amount of such checks that may be cashed by licensed cashers from $6,000 to $15,000. The Chapter also adds an express requirement that all licensed check cashers must deposit cash checks in the licensee’s bank account not later than the first business day after they were cashed.

The Chapter further amends Article 9-A to require licensed check cashers to submit to the Superintendent copies of any suspicious activity reports or currency transaction reports that are filed, as required, with appropriate federal authorities. The new section 372-a added by the Chapter expressly authorizes the Superintendent or designee to examine and investigate the operations of licensed check cashers and to have free access to the places of business and books and records, etc. of such licensees.

Chapter 455 (A.11303), Board of Director Requirements; approved 9/14/04. Amends section 121 of the Banking Law. Effective immediately.

Revises the requirement that banks and trust companies make periodic reports regarding their business activities to their respective boards of directors by limiting such reports to each regular scheduled meeting of a board or an executive committee, if the latter is conducting a regular scheduled meeting. Section 121 presently requires such institutions to make the reports monthly and specifies the types of business activities and transactions that must be included within the report since the last report. In addition, the Chapter amends the provisions of such section, which permit the Superintendent by regulation to modify the defined content requirements of such reports, to allow the Superintendent to further modify the content by size and/or business activities of a bank or trust company.

Chapter 527 (S.123-C), Premium Finance Agencies; advance of premium; approved 9/28/04. Amends section 577-A of the Banking Law and section 2120 of the Insurance Law. Effective January 1, 2005.

Addresses instances in which payment of premium is made by a premium finance agency to a retail insurance producer and such payment is not timely conveyed to the wholesale producer that has obtained the insurance coverage for the insured. The Chapter requires a retail producer to provide the premium finance agency in writing with the name and address of the wholesale producer through which coverage is obtained and the policy number, if available, either prior to or at the time funds are advanced to the retail producer. The premium finance agency is required to notify in writing the wholesale producer and the insurance company of the gross premium, the borrower's name and address, and the policy number, if available, within ten business days of acceptance of the agreement. Failure of the retail producer to comply with the notification requirement constitutes a violation of section 2120(d) of the Insurance Law and the retail producer is liable for actual damages for failure to disclose.

Chapter 563 (S.6379), Personal Loan Limits; foreign banks and investment companies; approved 10/5/04. Repeals and adds a new section 202 of the Banking Law; amends section 508(1) and repeals section 510-a of such law. Effective immediately.

Conforms currently and on an on-going basis the provisions governing interest rates on loans and installment obligations charged by licensed foreign bank branches and agencies to the provisions of sections 103(4-a) and (5) and 108 of the Banking Law, which govern similar transactions by State-chartered banks and trust companies, and generally provides that foreign branches and agencies may make credit related transactions to the same extent and under the same conditions as banks and trust companies for similar types of credit instruments. The chapter also empowers investment companies, licensed pursuant to Article 12 of the Banking Law, when engaged in lending, to lend at rates agreed to between the lender and the borrower. Repealed sections 202 and 510-a imposed various statutory restrictions, respectively, upon foreign bank branches and agencies and investment companies regarding interest rates that may be charged when making loans to customers.

Chapter 566 (S.6470-A), Regulatory Reform; banking activities; approved 9/14/04. Amends subdivisions 1 and 4 of section 11; subdivisions 4-a, 4-b and 5 of section 97 and adds a new subdivision 4-c; amends subdivisions 6, 6-a and 10 of section 36 and adds a new subdivision 6-b; amends subdivision 2 of section 136; amends subdivision 2 of section 142-a; adds a new subdivision 29 to section 235; amends subdivision 2 of section 2001; amends subdivision 1 of section 5007 and adds new subdivisions 5 and 6; and amends subdivisions 1 and 2 of section 5008 of the Banking Law. Effective immediately.

Causes the state banking charter to be more flexible and attractive, facilitates effective and efficient business structures by banking institutions, and fosters effective and efficient supervision of those organizations. The Chapter affects a number of different banking activities and related regulatory practices.

The Chapter clarifies the supervisory scope of the Banking Department with respect to any type of business organization that is subject to the Banking Law, and also clarifies that any official communication from the Department to any entity subject to supervision and examination shall, at the direction of the Department, be presented to the controlling owners or principal management of such entity.

Further, banks and trust companies are authorized to make equity investments in any type of entity, in addition to a corporation, for purposes of engaging in any authorized banking activities, which includes any activity a bank may engage in directly. The Superintendent also is authorized to allow an eligible bank or trust company, on a case by case basis, to increase its level of investments in stock equities, not to exceed 5 percent of assets or 100 percent of its capital, surplus and undivided profits, whichever is less.

The Chapter, in addition, extends and/or expands 1) the authority of the Superintendent to examine entities with which banking organizations may be affiliated, including non-banking subsidiaries of an affiliate that controls directly or indirectly a banking organization; and 2) the source of reports of other regulatory agencies that the Superintendent may use in such examinations. These provisions also clarify the determination of "control" as it applies to non-corporate entities. Related to this expanded authority, the Chapter also extends and/or expands upon the regulatory settings, and sharing between such settings, to which the confidential treatment of documents used in examinations and investigations applies.

The Chapter makes consistent the standards that relate to an out-of-state bank holding company acquiring and merging a New York banking institution, which is less than five years old, into an out-of-state bank with provisions that relate to merging a New York banking institution into an out-of-state bank by such bank.

Banks, trust companies, savings banks and, by operation of law, savings and loan associations, are granted express authority to invest in small business investment companies.

Finally, the Chapter authorizes corporate banking organizations to issue uncertificated stock shares and generally conforms such provisions of the Banking Law to parallel provisions in the Business Corporation Law that apply to non-banking corporations.

Chapter 625 (S.7565), Money Transmitters; sub-agents, electronic instruments and permissible investments approved 10/19/04. Amends sections 640(7), 640(9), 643(1), 648, 651-A, 652-b(2) of the Banking Law, and adds a new subdivision 10 to section 640. Effective January 1 (January 1, 2005) following the date on which it became law.

Authorizes licensed money transmitters to issue electronic traveler's checks, as defined, and eliminates the requirement that traveler's checks be issued only in multiples of ten if under one hundred dollars or in multiples of one hundred dollars. In addition, the Chapter also authorizes licensed money transmitters to use certain assets, when approved by the Superintendent, as another collateral resource or permissible investment to secure, as required by the Banking Law, the outstanding payment instruments and traveler's checks of such transmitters.

The Chapter adds a definition of “agent” of a licensed money transmitter and requires that agents be designated or appointed by the licensee pursuant to a written agency agreement. Finally, the Chapter deletes any reference to sub-agents contained in Article 13-B, thus effectively repealing any express or implied authorization that licensed money transmitters or their agents may engage in money transmission transactions through sub-agents.

Certain technical amendments are also made by the Chapter including revising the definition of a traveler’s check contained in Article 13-C, which authorizes the State Transmitter of Money Insurance Fund, to conform to the amended definition in Article 13-B, discussed above.

Chapter 660 (S.6868-B), Credit Unions; bylaws and general powers; approved 10/26/04. Amends sections 451(2), 454(6) and (18), 453(6), 456(2), 460(3), of the Banking Law and rennumbers sections 481 through 490 of Article 11-A as sections 490-a through 490-j of such law. Effective immediately.

Conforms the State Charter credit union requirements relating to membership and member business loans to those applicable to federal credit unions as the result of recent regulatory actions adopted by the National Credit Union Administration. The Chapter modifies a so-called “streamlined” application process by which a credit union may add groups to its field of membership by increasing the size of such groups from those under 500 to those under 3000, and also modifies the definition of the “immediate family” of a member to include siblings, stepparents, stepchildren and stepsiblings, all of which may become members. In addition, the Chapter repeals limits on borrowing by an association or organization of members of a credit union, which itself is a member, that restricted such borrowing to the amount of shares (deposits) the association or organization has placed in the credit union.

Further, the Chapter repeals a definition of “net worth” which is inconsistent with the definition of net worth added by Chapter 679 of laws of 2003 and repeals and corrects various references to “surplus” and “surplus account” the requirements for which were also repealed by Chapter 679 and replaced with net worth requirements.

Finally, the Chapter conforms the limits upon member business loans to those applicable to federal credit unions. The total of such loans outstanding may not exceed the lesser of 1.75 times the net worth of a credit union or 1.75 times the minimum net worth required for a federal credit union to be well capitalized. Credit unions are exempted from this standard if they (i) are chartered for the purpose of making business loans or have a history of primarily making such loans, as determined by the Superintendent; (ii) serve predominantly low-income members, as defined by the Superintendent; or (iii) are formed as community development financial institutions.

Chapter 662 (S.7127-A), Credit Union Conversion; mutual thrift; approved 8/20/04. Adds section 487-a to Article 11 of the Banking Law. Effective January 1 (January 1, 2005) after the date on which it became law.

Authorizes the conversion of a State-chartered credit union to a State-chartered mutual savings bank. The defined process includes specified periodic notices to the members of a credit union and a subsequent specified vote by the members. Notice also must be given to the Superintendent, and the Superintendent is required to verify the vote and may direct that the vote be taken again if he or she disapproves of the methods or procedures by which the vote was taken. No director or senior management, as defined, of the credit union is permitted to receive any economic benefit in regard to the conversion of the credit union other than director fees and ordinary compensation. A credit union seeking to convert would make application and obtain approval by the Banking Board, upon which the Superintendent would issue the authorization certificate. Upon such issuance, the credit union ceases and is converted to a mutual savings bank, upon which all property is transferred to the mutual savings bank and it succeeds to all rights, obligations and relations of the credit union.

Chapter 677 (S.2263-B), Money Transmitters; technical amendments; approved 11/3/04. Amends sections 131(1), 180(6), 641(1), 646(4), 651, 651-A and 652-b(2) of the Banking Law, and repeals section 644. Effective immediately.

The Chapter makes comprehensive technical and conforming amendments to the Banking Law provisions that authorize the licensing of money transmitters and the regulation of money transmission activities.

Specifically, the Chapter revises and corrects various intended references to Article 13-B of the Banking Law, deletes various outdated transition provisions related to the initial licensing of money transmitters; deletes a separate outdated reference to a previously repealed section 670; expressly includes in the licensing exemption provisions a reference to foreign banking entities supervised by the federal Office of the Comptroller of the Currency; repeals outdated transitional provisions regarding the pledge of securities by entities already subject to regulation by the Banking Law that also sought licensing as money transmitters when the licensing article was newly enacted; conforms the confidentiality provisions of the licensing article regarding supervision of licensees to the scope of the confidentiality provisions in section 36(10) of the Banking Law regarding examinations and investigations of banks; deletes outdated references to foreign banking corporations; includes a reference to federal savings associations inadvertently not included when section 651-a was enacted; and includes references to foreign banking entities licensed by the Department and federal banking entities performing money transmission activities in this state to the “anti-tying” provisions pertaining to licensed check cashers that serve as agents for such money transmission entities.
