Hello, I am submitting a comment regarding the new proposed regulations.

I would like to express my very strong support for these new regulations. As things stand today, New York finds itself in a very backwards position in the world of blockchain and digital assets. It is vital that New York provide a safe and supportive incubation space for this new and transformative technology. As in many other areas, New York has burdened the space with unnecessary red tape that stifles innovation, investment, and growth. I encourage the DFS to implement these new regulations in a swift and orderly fashion.

As the financial capital of the world it is vital that New York leads the charge as opposed to closing the gates of innovation!
