

ABOUT US

The New York State Department of Financial Services (DFS) is the primary regulator for 3,000 financial institutions including insurance companies, state-chartered banks, credit unions, mortgage bankers and virtual currency companies. The purpose of regulation is to protect consumers and to ensure the safety and soundness of financial institutions.

OUR MISSION

The New York State Department of Financial Services seeks to build an equitable, transparent, and resilient financial system that benefits individuals and supports business. Through engagement, data-driven regulation and policy, and operational excellence, the department and its employees are responsible for empowering consumers and protecting them from financial harm; ensuring the health of the entities we regulate; driving economic growth in New York through responsible innovation; and preserving the stability of the global financial system.

HELP DURING DISASTERS

DFS helps victims of disasters with questions about the insurance claims process, policy cancellations or non-renewals, and coverage for additional living expenses.

If your business has been affected by a disaster, we can answer questions about insurance coverage, business interruption, and off-premises service interruption coverage.

DFS works with banks and lenders to help expedite claims checks for homeowners in need of urgent disaster-related repairs and works to eliminate excessive fees, prevent foreclosures, and encourage loan and mortgage forbearance for those affected. If a loan or mortgage closing is delayed, DFS may be able to help avoid adverse consequences, like late fees charged for changes in the terms of closing.
